The State of Nevada offers internships and training for transitioning service members from all branches of the U.S. Armed Forces. These exciting opportunities allow service members to gain valuable experience in the public sector and provides pathways to State employment opportunities. Internship opportunities span numerous occupational groups housed within multiple state agencies as listed in this guide.

To apply, candidates should submit an online interest form located at the State of Nevada's SkillBridge webpage (nvjobs.nv.gov/veterans/skillbridge) and provide their resume to the SkillBridge program manager. Candidates will then be contacted within three to five business days and scheduled for an initial consultation to discuss current internship opportunities in more detail.

Don't miss out, apply today!

In the realm of IT operations, various specialized roles ensure the seamless functioning of digital infrastructures. Network Administration focuses on designing and implementing integrated information processing networks across diverse geographical locations. This involves meticulous planning, development, and verification of physical deployments, alongside the administration of multi-platform networks and communication protocols.

Database Administration is crucial for managing agency data effectively. This role encompasses modeling, configuring, and optimizing databases, as well as ensuring data backup and recovery. Moreover, Database Administrators establish standards for data conversion, maintain data dictionaries, and control information sharing within and outside the organization.

Information Security plays a pivotal role in safeguarding digital assets. Security experts administer policies and operations while collaborating with management to develop comprehensive security programs. Finally, Systems Administration ensures the smooth operation of computer hardware, operating systems, and software packages, supporting various information systems and enhancing their performance through troubleshooting and modifications.
